THE NATIONAL BENCHMARK TESTS

Measuring your academic readiness for University.

WHY DO I HAVE TO WRITE THE TESTS?

The NBTs are used by many universities in the country. They help higher education institutions to interpret school leaving results such as those of the National Senior Certificate (NSC). The test results support, but don't replace or duplicate, NSC results. Some South African higher education institutions use the NBTs for admission and others use them to determine whether you will need extra academic support during your studies. They also assist with the development of curricula. Find out from the institution you are applying to whether you are required to write the tests.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT FROM THE TESTS?

There are two tests: Academic Literacy, Quantitative Literacy (which are combined: AQL), and Mathematics (MAT). For more information about what the tests focus on, go to our web site: www.nbt.ac.za

The QL test is closely related to the intended outcomes of the NSC subject, Mathematical Literacy.

Students with disabilities are accommodated. The AL test has also been translated into Braille.

Each test requires you to apply prior learning - what you know and are able to do - to materials that reflect expectations for first year students in university programmes.

The tests are confidential, so there are no past papers and no special study materials to prepare for the tests.

CHOOSE ONLINE OR THE PENCIL & PAPER TEST

1. The tests are equilibrated so there is no difference in writing the online or pencil and paper form of the NBT.
2. You should choose the test form that suits you the best.
3. The online test is convenient as you would normally write the test at home, but you will need a computer that meets the minimum specification and have stable internet access and sufficient bandwidth or data.
4. You may prefer to write in a test venue using the pencil and paper form of the NBT, in which case you should book your test in a venue closest to you on a date that suits you.

WHICH TESTS MUST I WRITE?

The faculty or department will determine which test/s you must write and the deadlines for receiving your results.

WHERE CAN I WRITE THE TESTS?

A complete schedule with all the test locations is on the NBT website - www.nbt.ac.za. If there are no tests near to where you live, and the online test is not a viable option for you, send an e-mail to nbt@uct.ac.za, or phone us on 021 650 3523.

WHEN SHOULD I WRITE?

You should write the NBT before the closing date of your university application, in order to meet all deadlines and requirements for the programme(s) to which you are applying. You must write both AQL and MAT tests on the same day.

You are allowed to write the NBT for a second time, but you will need to confirm with your faculty first that a second score will be accepted.

APPLY AS A REMOTE WRITER

A remote writer/student is someone who is unable to write at an institution that generally facilitates the national benchmark test sessions.

A remote writer is a writer who is in another country or in an area too remote to be able to make a trip of a reasonable distance to the nearest testing centre. Send an email to nbtremote@uct.ac.za to register as a remote writer.

TEST RESULTS

1. Login to your NBT account approximately four weeks after writing, to access your results.
2. You will only be able to access them if you have paid for any tests for which you were registered.
